NEWTON'S ANGLO-ITALIAN ELEMENTS OF SINGING.

"The exercises are good, and Mr. Newton has paid more attention than is customary to phrasing and accent to all that concerns what we have so much at heart—a better declamation among our English vocalists. . . . Until now we had been accustomed to think a certain work on the art of — as the ne plus ultra of instructions in print, but Mr. Newton outdoes the professors who concocted that memorable treatise."—Athenæum.

"Mr. Newton has so arranged his text, exercises, and examples, as gradually to conduct the student from the first elements of song to the highest branches of a vocalist's education. It is probably more to the purpose to express our belief that Mr. Newton has distanced all competitors, and that his 'Elements of Singing' are really all they profess to be."—Spectator.

"Mr. Newton's heart and soul are in his work, and although he treats his subject in the most methodical way, he yet brings it before his students in an unusually interesting form. * * * Adopting the Italian method, Mr. Newton soon passes on to the more erudite mysteries of the vocal art; and here his advice is excellent. His instruction on the subject of declamation and recitative is most valuable."—Examiner.

"The elements of singing by Mr. Newton ought to be in every vocal student's hands, for it is decidedly one of the best, if not the best, work of its kind extant."—York Herald.

"We can recommend the work now under review, fully convinced that a careful study of the exercises, and a diligent perusal of the accompanying remarks, will amply repay for the expenditure of time and labour. The whole work is comprised in four sections, the last of which contains a classification of the passions. The first section, commencing with an explanation of the system of musical notation, and some preliminary remarks on the art of cultivating the voice, concludes by taking the learner through the ordinary intervals, ending with the eighth or octave. In this part of the work, too, the differences between the various voices, the chest voice, the medium, and the head voice, are indicated, and the defects incident to each are pointed out. The second section carries the student on still farther into the technicalities of the art, dealing with the arpeggio, the turn, the shake, the trill, the cadenza, and indeed all that is considered necessary for the mechanical formation of the voice; but it is in the third section that the most valuable part is to be found, for it is here that the higher qualifications of the intelligent vocalist are discussed, the proper distribution of accent and emphasis, musical declamation, and the art of phrasing. Examples from the oratorios of Handel and Haydn, the masses of Mozart, and operatic works of Pacini and Rossini, and others, are freely inserted, and the proper interpretation of each passage duly given. We should be giving our readers a very erroneous impression of this work were we to designate it as a royal road, or, in more vulgar parlance, a 'short cut' to the art of singing, for such it most assuredly is not; but we can recommend it as a valuable and conscientious work, the result of some years' experience of a professor and teacher of the art in a large country town."—Literary Gazette.

"SIR,—I am commanded by their Royal Highnesses the Prince and Princess of Wales to inform you that you have their permission to dedicate to them your Volume of Parochial Anthems.

TWENTY-FIVE PAROCHIAL ANTHEMS
BY THE CATHEDRAL COMPOSERS OF 1863.

PRICE (TO SUBSCRIBERS) ONLY 12s.

IN VOCAL SCORE, WITH ORGAN ACCOMPANIMENT,

(In a Folio Volume, from Engraved Plates.)

THE WORDS SELECTED FROM THE HOLY SCRIPTURES.

DR. FOWLE begs to say that he is about to produce, at a cost of much time, money, and labour, a Volume of Original and Easy Anthems for Country Choirs; such Anthems to be the compositions of some of the Cathedral Composers of the present time. He is induced to issue such a Work, on account of his own Volume of "Eighteen Short Anthems" having proved so exceedingly useful to Country Choirs, the Subscription-list to that Work numbering nearly 2,000 names, thereby proving that such a Work was greatly needed. He therefore believes that a Volume of New and Easy Anthems, by the Cathedral Composers of the present day will prove very acceptable to both Organists and Choirs, as no such Work (containing the compositions of so many living Composers) has ever been published.

Some of the most eminent Cathedral Composers have consented to contribute to the Work, and the following are the titles of the Anthems, with the names of the different Composers:—

- 1 O praise the Lord with me.—The Rev. Sir Frederick A. G. Ouseley, Bart., Mus. Doc., M.A., Professor of Music in the University of Oxford.
- 2 Hail! gladdening Light.—The Rev. S. S. Greatheed, Composer of the Oratorio, "Enoch's Prophecy."
- 3 The Lord is my Shepherd.—G. A. Macfarren, Esq., the celebrated Musician and Composer.
- 4 Rejoice in the Lord.—Dr. G. J. Elvey, Organist to Her Majesty the Queen, and Organist of St. George's Chapel, Windsor.
- 5 This is the day the Lord hath made.—Dr. H. J. Gauntlett, the well-known learned Musician and Composer.
- 6 Fear not, I bring you good tidings.—Henry Leslie, Esq., Composer of the Oratorios, "Immanuel" & "Judith," and Conductor of the celebrated "Leslie's Choir."
- 7 If ye love Me.—Dr. R. P. Stewart, Professor of Music in the University of Dublin, and Organist of Christchurch Cathedral, Dublin.
- 8 How dear are Thy counsels! —Dr. A. S. Holloway, Organist to Lord Arundel, Wardour Castle.
- 9 Lord of all Power and Might.—Dr. Edmund T. Chipp, Organist of St. George's and Ulster Hall, Belfast.
- 10 O clap your hands!—Dr. Charles Steggall, an excellent Composer of Church Music.
- 11 All we like sheep.—Dr. Spark, Organist of the Town Hall, Leeds.
- 12 O clap your hands! —J. L. Hopkins, Esq., Mus. Bac., Organist of Trinity College, Cambridge.
- 13 Come, let us return unto the Lord.—William Jackson, Esq., Composer of the Oratorios, "The Deliverance of Israel," "Isaiah," &c.
- 14 Lord, how are they increased.—Henry Baumer, Esq., Professor of Music at Dulwich College.
- 15 I will lay me down in peace.—Walter B. Gilbert, Esq., Mus. Bac., Composer of the Oratorio "St. John," and other works.
- 16 O give thanks.—Dr. Dixon, Organist of St. James's Church, Louth.

- 17 If ye then be risen with Christ.—G. Townshend Smith, Esq., Organist of Hereford Cathedral.
- 18 Thou, O God, art praised in Zion! —Dr. R. P. Stewart.
- 19 O praise the Lord, all ye Nations.—Charles Edward Stephens, Esq., Composer of several well-known works.
- 20 Deliver me, O Lord.—John Stainer, Esq., Mus. Bac., Organist of Magdalen College, Oxford.
- 21 Make me a clean heart, O God.—Joseph Barnby, Esq., Organist of St. Andrew's, Wells Street, London.
- 22 O send out thy Light.—Dr. H. J. Gauntlett.
- 23 Hear ye, and give ear.—Dr. Charles Steggall.
- 24 Thou wilt keep him in perfect peace.—Dr. Fowle, M.A.
- 25 All Nations whom Thou hast made.—Dr. Fowle, M.A.

Dr. FOWLE begs to remark that instead of Eighteen Anthems (the number announced in the first issue of the Prospectus) there will be Twenty-five, but no increase in the price to Subscribers, thus rendering the work the cheapest, as well as the best, of the kind that has ever been published.

It will be a most Valuable Work to Choirs and Choral Societies, and of great use for the Week-day Services at the Cathedrals. Organists and Choirs should support Dr. Fowle in this most expensive undertaking.

Price of the Volume to Subscribers, 12s.; Six Copies for £2 12s. Non-Subscribers, £1.
